

The Daily News.

FRIDAY MORNING, APRIL 20, 1866.

LOCAL MATTERS.

SEE SECOND AND THIRD PAGES.

THE FIREMEN'S PARADE.—Our readers will observe that a change has been made in the programme, and that the procession will move from the Citadel Green through Meeting, down Broad to Friend-street, counter-marching at the Cathedral. The Mayor and Aldermen will review them in front of the Guard House.

A WRECK FALLEN IN WITH.—On Tuesday afternoon last, about twelve miles east of this Bar, the pilot boat Pride fell in with a schooner on her beam ends, with her sails all washed off. The pilots were unable to make out anything that would lead to her identity.

MAJOR DOBBS will deliver his third lecture to-night at the Masonic Hall. The subject will be "L'education des filles; la filiation; les devoirs de la femme dans la famille"—all interesting subjects. We were glad to learn that the last lecture was well attended. A capital opportunity is here offered our young pensionnaires to perfect their French accent, and we hope Major D. will have a large audience.

MRS. E. J. DAWSON & Co., Booksellers, No. 45 Hayne street, have favored us with a copy of a pamphlet bearing the following title: "The Slave Law and all its Amendments. The Tax Act for 1866. An Ordinance of the Convention—Freedman's Code. New Constitution of the State of South Carolina. Compiled by H. Melville Myers, Jr." This is a valuable manual of reference for magistrates, lawyers, business men, and, indeed, every one who is desirous of knowing something of the laws of the State. Mr. Myers merits the thanks of the public for presenting these documents in such convenient form.

WE HAVE received from H. P. RUGO, No. 108 Market-street, the New York dailies of April 17th; New York Ledger 28th; Literary Album of 28th; Chimney Corner of 28th; Nix Max for May; Pilot of 21st; Literary Companion, Field and Fireside, every Saturday; Weekly Magazine; Godey's Ladies' Book for May; Sunday Mercury. Mr. Rugo has made arrangements to receive the latest New York dailies now regularly every day, and the weeklies by first mail after publication. He has also on hand a ways the latest novels, and would be glad to see all of his old customers back at the old and well known place, No. 108 Market-street. Subscriptions received for any kind of publication.

THE CITY RAILROAD.—The interrogatories put by us yesterday, on this subject, have elicited the desired response. We find, upon information, that the project has not been abandoned; far from it. The money is all at hand; the company are negotiating at this time with contractors for the work. Lumber, iron, and other material necessary, have all fallen within the last few months, and by waiting a little while longer the company will save some $20,000 or more in the expense of the construction. The plan is to start the road with abundant time to complete it before November next, when they hope to have it in running order. As the community is having fair accommodations at present from the Omnibus Line, the company consider they are warranted in deferring the execution of the work, and they say are twenty or twenty-five per cent. in the cost of the road.

DREADFUL FRIGHT.—The ruins of St. Finbar's Cathedral came near being the scene of a serious calamity yesterday. While the workmen (who are engaged in taking down the steeple) were at work, the policeman guarding the place thought he saw the steeple and the steeple about to fall, and giving the alarm, immediately rushed from the building and ran to the opposite side of the street, where he was followed by three workmen employed below. There were six men on the steeple, and their situation, in consequence of this premature report, now became painful in the extreme. There was no chance of escape, as the steeple still had group, expecting momentarily to be precipitated to the ground, and either crushed or badly hurt, and a German (who was among the number) was so badly frightened that the blood gushed from his mouth and nose. Fortunately for the party, the wall did not fall; and it turned out that the policeman was mistaken, and had no cause for his apprehensions.

THE STREETS AGAIN.—We received a number of letters yesterday from parties residing in King-street, between George and Calhoun, charging us with partiality, because we singled out the corner of Broad and East Bay streets as the slushiest place in town. They are willing to leave the decision as to which is the biggest, softest, blackest collection of mud, to a band of unbiased arbiters, confident King-street will carry off the palm. Now we are sorry our up-town friends should consider themselves slighted. This was most remote from our intention. We know that this part of King-street is in very bad order. The poor omnibus horses have to traverse this slough a dozen times a day. One day, we will make this street there impassable, but after all, our King-street friends are better off than their Broad-street brethren. The former, thanks to the narrowness of the street, can cross, on an emergency, in a hop, skip and jump, and they get off with muddy boots and breeches; but not so down town. We saw yesterday sundry individuals, almost of crossing opposite Messrs. Edgerton & Richards. They were looking this way and that, but could not find any resting place upon which they could venture to plant their feet, so they circumnavigated this impassable gulf, and went over at the crossing below. Fortunately, we have heard of no serious accidents as yet; and we sincerely hope that something will be done by somebody, to afford the innocent public some sense of security.

THE MEDICAL COLLEGE OF SOUTH CAROLINA.—The Annual Circular of the Trustees and Faculty of this College has been politely sent us by the Dean; and as we have long cherished a warm regard for this venerable institution, we propose to give something more than a cursory notice. The Faculty is one of the best in the country. Besides the regular Professors, a full staff of supplementary Professors have been appointed, and the College now offers facilities and inducements second to none in the United States.

The following gentlemen compose the Faculty.
Regular Professors.
Francis T. Miles, M. D., Prof. of Anatomy.
Julian J. Chisolm, M. D., Professor of Surgery.
Eli Geddings, M. D., Professor of the Theory and Practice of Medicine.
James Moultrie, M. D., Professor of Physiology.
Henry R. Frost, M. D., Professor of Medical Jurisprudence.
Thomas G. Proleson, M. D., Professor of Obstetrics.
C. U. Shepard, M. D., LL. D., Professor of Chemistry.
Samuel Logan, M. D., Demonstrator of Anatomy.
Francis L. Parker, M. D., Assistant Demonstrator of Anatomy.

Supplementary Professors.
Francis L. Parker, M. D., Extraordinary Professor of Anatomy.
Samuel Logan, M. D., Extraordinary Professor of Surgery.
J. Dickson Bruns, M. D., Extraordinary Professor of the Theory and Practice of Medicine.
Edward Geddings, M. D., Extraordinary Professor of Physiology.
Wm. B. DeSaussure, M. D., Extraordinary Professor of Materia Medica.
F. M. Robertson, M. D., Extraordinary Professor of Obstetrics.

Lecturers at Roper Hospital.
Robert A. Kinloch, M. D., Clinical Lecturer on Surgery.
J. Ford Proleson, M. D., Clinical Lecturer on Medicine.
These gentlemen are all well known in our community, and occupy the most honorable positions in the profession.

Dr. Frost, for so many years the Dean of the Faculty, has recently died. The chair of Water Medicine is, therefore, vacant at present. Dr. Chisolm was elected Dean a few weeks before the death of his lamented predecessor.

The several changes indicated in the circular go to show that the Trustees have come to the conclusion that a younger arm should guide the helm; a happy method of transition has thus been adopted, throwing young blood into the veins of the old institution. With an energetic working man like Dr. Chisolm at the head, the College must succeed.

We further note in the circular that although three additional lectures will be given daily, the charges to students will be the same as heretofore. Another new feature in the present circular is the plan of tutorial "quizzes"—an admirable plan, one professor every night recapitulating (in question and answer) the lectures gone over during the preceding week.

The College deserves success, and we doubt not, will attain it.

And while on this subject, we would again call the attention of the public, and of the indigent sick more especially, to the Polyclinic established at the Medical College in Queen-street, where the following gentlemen are in attendance every Wednesday and Saturday morning: Professor Eli Geddings, M. D., Medical Chief of Clinic.
T. Gervais Robinson, M. D., and Wm. H. Ford, M. D., Medical Assistants.
Professor Julian J. Chisolm, M. D., Surgical Chief of Clinic.
Samuel Logan, M. D., and Francis L. Parker, M. D., Surgical Assistants.

The circular and catalogue is from the Press of Mr. Joseph Walker, Agent, and is gotten up in his usual workmanlike style.

PROVOST COURT.—Robert Leo, colored.—Stealing.—J. C. H. CLAUSSEN testified that on Wednesday last, at about 11 o'clock in the forenoon, he heard that a man had rolled a barrel of flour from out of his store, No. 10 Market-street, and that he ran after him, and came up to the defendant at about three hundred yards from his store, rolling the barrel along the street. Witness observed a policeman, and had him arrested and sent to the Guard House. Witness knew the flour to be his. Sentenced to twenty days imprisonment.

H. Thompson, colored.—Disorderly Conduct.—John Kenney testified that on Wednesday last, while he was attempting to get a rope being to him, the defendant took him by the collar and said he should not have him.

Francis Heidt testified that on Wednesday he was sitting on the sill of his door in Greenhill-street, and hearing words between Kenney and defendant about some rope, witness said, here is a rope which a boy left with me yesterday or the day before. When Kenney went to take the rope, defendant took hold of him, and said to Kenney he should not have possession of it until he paid him the money he owed him. A scuffle ensued, which witness stopped. Defendant then took up a brick, which Kenney told him to drop, and he did; but he had not got twenty yards before he picked up another. Kenney took the rope and walked off with it in his hand, and defendant cursed him a d—d Irish son of a b—. Sentenced to a fine of $5, or ten days imprisonment.

K. McAlly, a colored soldier.—Drunk and disorderly.—Policeman Riley testified that he was on duty on Wednesday night in Anson street, and that about 8 o'clock the defendant came along drunk, whooping and yelling, and clearing the sidewalk. Witness took hold of him to carry him to the Guard House, when defendant resisted and attempted to butt him with his head, and bite him, and hurt him every way he could. At last, witness used his club upon him, and brought him to the Guard House. The case was referred to the captain of his company.

John S. Lawson.—Interfering with a sentinel on duty.—Lawrence McFarlan, Co. C, 35th regiment U. S. C. T., testified that he was on duty Wednesday night as a sentinel, and at about 9 o'clock the defendant came and asked him where was Calhoun street, which witness showed him. Defendant then asked him whether he was white or black, and witness answered that he was colored. Defendant then wanted to know what he was doing with that eagle on his hat; that they didn't like such things in South Carolina, and put his hand in his breast. Witness came to the charge with his musket, and then defendant dropped his hand. Witness called Corporal of the guard, and had him arrested. Defendant was in liquor. Sentenced to pay a fine of $5.

MAYOR'S COURT.—There was nothing interesting before his Honor yesterday morning, there being but one drunken man brought up, and he was so orderly that he was fined only $2.

Two men, who have been dispensing superior brandies, wines, and cordials in small quantities from the thirty pound without a license, were fined $100 each.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

To the Public.
Having, after due consideration and reliable information from Northern markets, arrived at the conclusion that Merchandise has probably reached its lowest mark for the present season, we close our store this day for the purpose of marking down our stock.

We take this opportunity to express our thanks to the public for their generous patronage, and hope by fair dealing and low prices to merit the continuance of the same.
